

THE SPORTIER

www.thesportier.com

Cavs Can't Keep Up With The Heat

On Christmas Day, LeBron James came back to his old home court in Miami. He was facing the Miami Heat. The Heat was on. The Heat scored 30 in the first quarter, topping the 27 Cleveland points in the first. The next quarter, again Miami take a good lead of 13, 49-62. The third quarter was good catching up time for the Cavs. LeBron only had 6 of the 25 third quarter points, but the 25 did top the 15 Heat points, making the score 74-77, Miami. The fourth quarter started good for the Cavs, LeBron making his only 2 points of the quarter the points that would take the lead. And then LeBron makes a technical foul. Dwayne Wade makes the free throw and Adonis Haslem gets the leading points. Kyrie Irving later makes a layup that would tie the game at 80. It stayed like that, and then Danny Granger gets a layup that would keep the lead until the end. The final score was 91-101 Miami, LeBron's Miami return turned into a loss.

Source: ESPN

In The Rulebook

When an umpire suddenly calls a balk in baseball, you probably aren't able to catch it quick enough or you are focusing on something else, like the batter. When a balk is called, the umpire has seen the pitcher go into his motion, and then he plants both his feet down or stops his motion, and then does his motion again. The consequence is that every runner on the bases gets to advance one base.

The COMIC

By: Shailen Pathy

Pinstripe Ends in OT

This year, the Boston College Eagles went up against the Penn State Nittany Lions. The points didn't start coming until the 5th drive, when Penn State Wide Receiver Chris Goodwin made a catch and ran it to the end zone for a 72 yard touchdown. But then the Eagles took over and Half Back Jon Hillman ran for a 49 yard touchdown. After the quarter, Quarterback of Penn State Christian Hackenberg turned the ball over on a fumble, but nothing could be done with Boston College's drive. The third quarter started with a Shakim Phillips touchdown, putting Boston College up by 7. Boston College recovered another fumble from Hackenberg, leading to a Tyler Murphy Quarterback run for a 40 yard touchdown. But that didn't stop Penn State. They got within a touchdown when Geno Lewis caught a touchdown pass. DaeSean Hamilton would get a touchdown, tying the game up at 21. The Eagles got a field goal, only to let up a field goal to the Nittany Lions. In overtime, Boston College got a touchdown from Half Back David Duedeck, but terrifyingly missed the extra point. The extra point miss would make the loss complete after Kyle Carter touchdown AND a made PAT.

Source: NCAA

What 2 Look 4

21-34

Predicti

V

Games of Last Week

30-31

105-1

Comic Sources

nydailynews.com

fark.com

twistedifter.com

sportsgameupdate.com