Madison's Last Second Victory

Yesterday on Saturday, the Madison 4th Grade Tigers played in the Branford Tournament against the Portland Basketball Club (CT). Madison started great, with a rally, which was enough to be up at the half, 14-13. Madison took 1 more point in the 3rd quarter, but Portland took a big lead going into the 4th, 25-15. Madison was turning the ball over at the start of the 4th. But when it was into the quarter more, Madison started a comeback. It started half way through the quarter and finished the game. Key plays were made, including steals and putbacks. A little bit later, though, Portland stepped up their game. The ball kept going back and forth. Portland had a 4 point lead with 59 seconds left. Madison cut the lead down to 1 with 20 seconds left when Jacob Rachler hit a key free throw that put Madison in the lead by. Jacob would score 1 more time that would let Madison secure a win from falling out of the tournament.

In The Rulebook

An and-one is a common used term in basketball. It is used when a on one team fouls a player on the other team and the player that gets fouled makes the basket, making the shooter have only one foul shot.

Yale-Harvard Overtime Thriller

Yale and Harvard is a big rivalry in sports, but on Sunday night, this was not only one of the greatest Yale-Harvard games, maybe one of the greatest college hockey games.

Harvard were the first to strike in the first period, but within a matter of seconds, Yale got a goal. The score stayed that way until the second period when Yale scored. 2-1 was the score for a long time until with 4 minutes left on the clock in the third period and Harvard scored. This goal forced the first overtime, and lots of shots were missed. With 5:05 left on the clock, a guy on Harvard fell and crashed his head on the wall. A Yale player was sent to the penalty box. The only weird thing was that the penalty was for five minutes! Yale was at least able to kill the penalty time without any harm. The second overtime was the same, until when the time of the period ticked to 3:47. That's when the puck went passed one of the greatest NCAA hockey players this year, Alex Lyon, the Yale goalie. Harvard had pulled off a win against their higher ranked rivals and that would send Harvard to the Semi-finals and Yale would have to go back to the drawing board.
