A Bad Ending

Last night, No. 10 UNC faced No. 1 Clemson in a ACC Championship game. Let's skip to the most important part of the game, the final minute of the game.

UNC had just scored a touchdown to put them a little nearer to Clemson's score. The score was 37-45. The time was 1:13. Then the onside kick took place. UNC kicks a perfect onside kick... AND THEY RECOVER! But that excitement only lasted a few seconds, as a referee made a controversial call. "Offsides, kicking team, replay kick." This upset the whole entire lot of UNC fans, even the coach, Larry Fedora. UNC tried another kick, but UNC failed to recover after the ball being let loose 3 times. It was a very bad way to end for UNC, but for Clemson, they still are undefeated at 13-0 and are now ACC Champions.

What a Play!

On Thursday, the Packers faced the Lions. This should have been an easy game, but the Packers were down, 17-0, at the half. The Packers started their comeback in the 3rd quarter when they scored 14 points to be a little closer at a score of 20-14. In the 4th, the Lions took a bigger lead with a field goal, but the Packers came back and scored a passing touchdown. The Packers needed 2 more points to tie the game, the score 23-21. The Lions had to punt, and the Packers had trouble to start. On 3rd and 10, they had a 19 yard pass, but 2 laterals pushed them back. There was a flag, though, so the Packers had a 1st down at their own 39 yard line. The next play was a Hail Mary. Aaron Rodgers waited until his bunch of receivers reached the end zone. Rodgers almost got sacked, but he threw a high, arching throw all the way to the end zone. Now, wouldn't it be crazy if, through all of the players, that a Packer caught that? Well, somehow, Tight End Richard Rodgers leaped up in front of all the players and pulled the ball down! The Packers have a walk off 61 yard Hail Mary touchdown!

Grenkie Signs With D-Backs

The latest baseball news is that former Dodgers ace and Gold Glove winner Zack Grenkie has signed with the Diamondbacks. Grenkie will be part of the rebuilding process for the Diamondbacks, as he will be starting out with a younger rotation. Pitching has been a problem these past few years for the Diamondbacks, but Grenkie should be a perfect pitcher who can pitch lots of scoreless baseball and has pitched in the playoffs. Grenkie brings a lot to this team, especially right now as they have had trouble winning a lot. It will help that Grenkie was on a good team previously. Hopefully, the Diamondbacks can contend this coming year and transform into a power team.

Did You Know?

One basketball game in the year 1990, the Chicago Bulls travelled to Orlando to face the Magic. Michael Jordan was on this team. But that day, No. 23 was not on the team. But how is that possible if Jordan's number is number 23? It was a weird day. Jordan's jersey was believed to be stolen that day, so the Bulls gave him their extra No. 12 jersey. Luckily for the Bulls, Jordan still played the same. Jordan was wearing a jersey that did not hold his name. A couple days later, Jordan's No. 23 jersey was found in ceiling tiles of the visiting locker room. Whoever did that hid the jersey well!
